

COVID-19 Institutional Updates

Message here

Institution /Organization	Status of FOLIO participation
Cornell University	Staff dedicated to FOLIO are working remotely as of this week. Currently no known changes in developer, SME, or other commitments.
Duke University	Staff dedicated to FOLIO are working remotely as of this week. Currently no known changes in developer, SME, or other commitments. There may be some disruption to participation as we transition operational work online where possible and support remote user access and services.
Leipzig University Library	Part of staff dedicated to FOLIO are working remotely as of this week. Currently no known changes in developer, SME, or other commitments.
Texas A&M	Staff dedicated to FOLIO are working remotely as of this week. Currently no known permanent changes in developer, SME, or other commitments, though there may be short term disruptions as people adjust to working from home.
University of Chicago	Contributed POs will be minimally affected. Many SMEs are temporarily diverted to figure out how to reconfigure our services from supporting primarily on-premises education and research to entirely remote.  Local planning has also been disrupted by these activities.
VZG	Staff dedicated to FOLIO are working remotely as of this week. Currently no known permanent changes in developer, SME, or other commitments, though there may be short term disruptions as people adjust to working from home.
Mainz University Library	Staff involved in FOLIO is shifting to home office since last week. No changes in commitments. Some additional time windows due to the postponed German FOLIO days.
